A few instructions on planting and growing tulips:

- Plant your tulip bulbs in autumn, once the weather has cooled and before the ground freezes, for blooms the following spring.
- Store bulbs in a cool, dry, well-ventilated location until you're ready to plant.
- Choose a sunny location with well-drained soil. Avoid areas where water collects, as bulbs can rot in soggy conditions.
- Plant bulbs at a depth of approximately three times their height, and space them approximately 10–15 cm (4–6 inches) apart. Plant tulips with the pointed ends facing up.
- Water after planting to settle the soil. Once planted, rainfall is usually sufficient; water during dry spells, if needed.
- After flowering, remove the spent flower heads but leave the stems and leaves until they turn yellow and die back naturally.
